

BRYAN SEEKS AID FOR U. S. CITIZENS

Would Aid Americans to Flee From Mexico.

ASKS CONGRESS FOR $100,000

President Intervenes and Prevents Ambassador H. Wilson From Telling
Story of Mexico and Its Troubles to House Committee.

Washington, D. C.—The United States government, by Secretary of State Bryan, with the approval of the president, has asked congress for the large sum of $100,000 to get American citizens out of the republic of Mexico at once.

Await Transportation.
The official news to the department is that many Americans, including whole families, are fleeing into Tampico from Chamas, Coco and "outlying districts" and are at the seaport awaiting transportation to the United States.

A strong argument against intervention has always been that it might exasperate the Mexicans of all parties to such an extent that a massacre of American citizens might be the result.

Another very significant development in the Mexican situation is that the White House intervened to prevent Ambassador Wilson from telling the complete story of Mexico and its troubles to the foreign affairs committee of which Representative Henry Flood is chairman.

Talk of intervention among senators in the privacy of the cloakrooms is growing stronger every day. One member of the foreign relations committee said that they feared was some serious outbreak in Mexico like the Maine tragedy that will arouse the entire country.

Committee Complaints.
Foreign relations committee senators complain of President Wilson's refusal to take the committee into his confidence. They say Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft consulted freely, not only with the majority but the minority members when foreign affairs were acute.

Senator Sheppard of Texas laid before the senate a resolution passed by the Texas state senate demanding that congress take such actions as will make effective the declaration of the Baltimore platform guaranteeing the constitutional rights of all Americans abroad. This is taken as an indication of the growing feeling of unrest along the border.

Chairman Bacon of the foreign relations committee said he did not know what the plans of the president with regard to Mexico were. Submerging his own views, Mr. Bacon declared that the committee would take no steps until advised by the president what he wished done.

'KING OF LOAN SHARKS' FINED

Money Lender Ordered to Pay $1,000 and to Suspend Business for Three Years.

Trenton, N. J.—Daniel H. Tolman, money lender with a chain of offices recently in large cities throughout the country, was warned by Judge Gnitchel that he must remain out of the so-called loan shark business for three years upon penalty of imprisonment.

In passing sentence on Tolman, who pleaded guilty to violating the New Jersey law in conducting his business, the court fined him $1,000. Tolman is 61 years old and a resident of Montclair, N. J. His activities have been the cause of investigation in numerous cities and have given him the sobriquet of "King of the Loan Sharks." He has made a fortune out of his business.

Auto Injures Five People.

Erie, Pa.—Five people were injured when an automobile turned over near Ripley, N. Y. They are Miss Ruth McManis, aged 18, Pittsburgh, compound fracture, internal injuries, cannot survive; Mrs. W. J. McManis, internal injuries, arm fractured; W. J. McManis, internal injuries; Gerald McManis, 21, scalp wounds; Miss Helen McCrea, North Girard, Pa. Mrs. McManis was driving. She attempted to pass another car near Ripley and ran into the ditch. The machine turned over.

Robbery in Public Square.

Lima, O.—Lima had a bold robbery on the public square. A well dressed stranger hurled a chunk of concrete through the plate glass window of the Thew jewelry establishment, thrust his hand through the hole, and escaped with jewels valued at $300. Scores of pedestrians saw the robbers steal the jewels. The thief hurrying through the crowd escaped.

Preaches Self Out of Jail.

Lima, O.—Conversion of 41 prisoners in 30 days has obtained release from the workhouse for Rev. Edward Atkinson.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson was given a 200-day sentence for abandoning a child. He entered the workhouse clothed in ministerial garb and at once began to evangelize the place.

He was permitted to extend his activity to the city prison. Mayor Shook was impressed and the Rev. Mr. Atkinson was given a chance to preach on a normal basis.

ONE IS MURDERED, ANOTHER A SUICIDE

Man and Woman Die Together by Agreement.

Couple Leave Note Saying "We Have Sinned but We Love Each Other;
Sooner Than Part We Die Together."

New York City.—With a bright smile on her face and an expression of perfect peace and love clearly distinguishable many hours after death, the body of Miss Ellen Sidley was found lying beside the dead body of Harry G. Elliott, who had murdered her and then killed himself in a clump of bushes in Macombs dam park, the Bronx.

Two shots had been fired into the woman, each of which would have caused instant death and one shot into the man who had also died instantly.

Even the face of Elliott bore a calm and satisfied expression.

John Gerring, a park employee, came upon the bodies suddenly while searching the bushes for waste paper. By the side of Elliott lay a 38 calibre revolver with three out of the five cartridges fired. In the man's pocket was a note written in a feminine hand on expensive foreign note paper with a lavender border which read:

"Aug. 4, 1913.—To whom it may concern: This is to certify that we both have agreed to die together. We have sinned but we love each other. Sooner than part we die together. Our wish is that our bodies will not be parted in death—Ellen Sidley-Harry G. Elliott."

Pinned to the note was a card which read "Mr. H. Elliott, 218 W. 148th-st., New York city."

A pathetic feature of the case was the discovery that the man and woman had carefully prepared for death. The position of the bodies indicated that Miss Sidley had stretched herself out on the ground and had removed her corsets, which she used as a pillow to prevent the possibility of the bullet being deflected in any way. She had come to the spot without underclothes of any sort aside from silk stockings, expensive black pumps and costly tailor-made foreign silk dress. She had removed her equally expensive straw hat mounted with two large and costly plumes before the fatal shot was fired. Elliott had prepared likewise, wearing merely a neat suit of blue, silk undershirt and collar and a straw hat bearing the name C. H. Gwynne & Son, London, England.

MINE BLAST FATAL TO 19

Double Explosion in Colliery Kills
Officials of Company and Also Foreigners Who Were at Work.

Tower City, Pa.—The number of dead as a result of the double explosion at the Eastbrookside colliery of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. was increased to 19 by the death at Pottsville of John Lowenz, mine superintendent.

Of the dead seven were mine officials. They were working about the colliery inspecting as is the custom on days when the colliery is idle. An examination shows that almost all of the American workmen died as a result of being poisoned by the after damp, while the foreign workers were mostly all mangled and killed by shock.

Six Killed in Riot.

Sacramento, Cal.—District Attorney A. E. Manwell of Marysville, Constable L. C. Anderson of Wheatland, Deputy Sheriff D. Riordan of Marysville and three others are dead, Sheriff George H. Voss of Marysville, Marshal Scoggins of Wheatland, Postmaster John Johnson of Wheatland, George Bilby of Marysville and a score of others are suffering from gunshot wounds as a result of a battle between the officers and 600 members of the Industrial Workers of the World in the hop fields in Wheatland.

EX-GOV. LIND IS SENT TO MEXICO

Goes as President's Personal Representative.

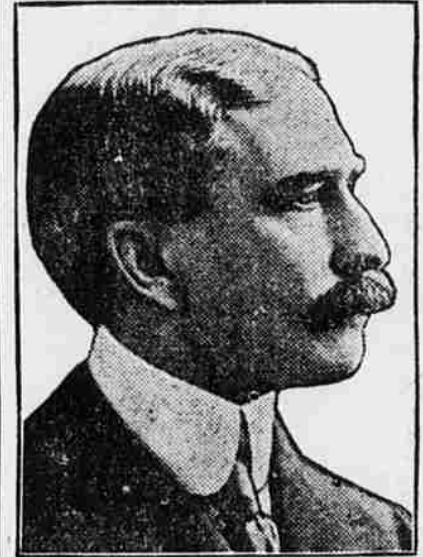

WILSON GIVES UP POSITION

His Resignation, Which Will Go Into Effect at End of Sixty Days, Is Accepted by Secretary of State Bryan.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson late Monday afternoon announced the appointment of John Lind, former governor of Minnesota, as his "personal representative" and sent him post-haste to Mexico "as adviser to the embassy in the present situation." Mr. Lind had departed on his mission before the announcement of his appointment. He goes by way of New Orleans or Galveston, by whichever route he can make best speed. The former governor takes with him the ultimate views of the president. Mr. Wilson is unalterably wedded to his mediation plan. This will be submitted either by Lind or United States Charge d'Affairs O'Shaughnessy.

Secretary of State Bryan, acting for President Wilson, accepted the resignation of Henry Lane Wilson as ambassador to Mexico earlier in the day. The resignation will go into effect at the end of 60 days. Ambassador Wilson was closeted with the secretary of state for about two hours discussing matters connected with the administration in Mexico.

On leaving the state department he said he had no comment to make on any policy or proposed policy of the president or of the secretary of state, and added that the president's plans for peace in Mexico have not been discussed with him.

HENRY LANE WILSON.

The ambassador said he was sure the president and the secretary of state were actuated by motives of the highest patriotism and that he is sorry that he cannot consider himself in accord with their ideas.

When asked what he intended to do, Wilson replied: "Frankly, I do not know. I probably shall return to the practice of law."

ORDERS EXPRESS RATES CUT

I. C. C. Move Means Active Competition
Between Express Companies and the Parcel Post.

Washington, D. C.—Active competition between the express companies of the United States and the government parcel post will begin on Oct. 15 next. The express companies were forced into this move by the interstate commerce commission which has just announced a drastic reduction of express rates to go into effect on that date.

The commission in issuing the mandate declared that the express companies had for years gouged the American public to the extent of millions of dollars annually in swollen profits. The reduction ordered is from 10 to 60 per cent, transportation of foodstuffs and packages under 50 pounds in weight being largely cheapened under the new tariff.

The most important change prescribed by the order is by way of modification of the present graduated scale of parcel rates. One hundred-pound rates for short distances either have been left unchanged or slightly reduced; for longer distances they have been lowered; for 50 pounds or less all rates have been practically reduced. For packages more than four pounds going more than 200 miles and less than 2,000 the new express rates are generally lower than the parcel post rates; for more than 3,000 miles rates are practically the same.

The express companies had filed statements indicating that the losses of revenue under the proposed rates would be intolerable.

State Solons Sent to Pen.

Webster Springs, W. Va.—Sentences were imposed upon the five members of the West Virginia legislature by Judge W. S. O'Brien in the superior court. The legislators were convicted of bribery in connection with the election of a United States senator early in the year. The sentences follow: Delegates S. U. G. Rhodes, Rath Duff and H. F. Ashbury, six years each in the penitentiary; State Senator B. A. Smith, five years and six months; Delegate Davie Hill, five years.

SUFFRAGISTS TAKE CAPITOL BY STORM

Submit Petitions for Amendment to Constitution.

Bankhead, Martine and Thornton Are Only Ones With Courage Sufficient to Oppose the Idea of Votes for Women.

Washington, D. C.—The third great demonstration in Washington of woman suffragists came off Thursday, according to prearranged program, with the senate wing of the Capitol as a stage setting. Delegations of women from every state in the Union bearing petitions for the passage of the pending suffrage amendment to the constitution "linked" to Washington by automobile and took the Capitol by storm. The tariff bill was laid aside for two hours until all the petitions and memorials could be submitted.

The delegations were met at their headquarters downtown by the members of the suffrage committee of the senate, which favorably reported the proposed amendment. Accompanied by Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the legislative committee of the suffragists, this committee returned to the Capitol. Senators Ashurst, Owen, Polindexter, Weeks, Jones, Smoot, Lane, Clapp, Shaffroth, Thomas and Hollis made brief addresses endorsing the suffrage petitions and the principles they represented. Senators Bankhead, Martine and Thornton were the only ones with courage sufficient to oppose the idea of votes for women. Others were content to lay the papers before the senate without indicating their views.

"The reasons for this request on the part of the women of the country," said Senator Owen, one of the most ardent champions of the movement, "are overwhelming and unanswerable. The time has come when they must be considered with dignity and with unbiased mind, free from prejudice or passion in the interest of the welfare of the human race."

WEATHERMEN ARE REMOVED

Three Officials Lose Jobs Upon Charge of Being Implicated in Political Activity.

Washington, D. C.—R. E. Pollock, section director of the weather bureau, Trenton, N. J.; Prof. H. I. Hellsell of the office of meteorology and Daniel J. Carroll, chief clerk of the bureau, were removed from office Thursday upon a charge of being implicated in the political activity of Willis L. Moore, who was dismissed as chief of the weather bureau. It was alleged that Moore and certain clerks of his office were trying to have him appointed secretary of agriculture by President Wilson.

Mrs. E. G. Woodward, Miss Adelaide Foster and H. C. Graham were suspended from the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture pending removal or transfers. Their chief, Victor Olmsted, was demoted some time ago. The charges against the employees of the bureau of statistics are "irregularities."

Shuns Banks, Minus $2,000.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Joseph Diamond, a painter, reported to the police that $2,000 in gold, his savings, tied in two handkerchiefs, had been stolen from beneath his pillow during the night.

The money consisted of five, ten and twenty dollar gold pieces. Diamond said he did not distrust banks, but that he preferred to have the money around and that he usually carried it with him. The police began an investigation, but said they were without a clue.

MUST HURT FARMER

Effect of Tariff Reduction on Agricultural Products.

Just at This Time, When Change in Economic Conditions Makes Protection
Most Needed, It Is to Be Taken Away.

The popular agitation against the high cost of living has been used as an excuse for proposing material reductions in the tariff on agricultural products. If all the benefits prophesied would follow upon the passage of the Underwood-Simmons bill, these reductions might be justified, but it is safe to say that the consumer is doomed to disappointment. At the same time the effect on the agricultural producer is going to be more serious than anticipated by many legislators.

A decade and more ago the great percentage of American agricultural products were sold in foreign markets. Now a change is coming over our economic life. The time is almost at hand when we will cease to be an exporter of agricultural products. Our vast production will be required to feed our own population. At the same time unlimited areas are being opened up in Canada and Argentina, and millions of bushels of wheat and other products are produced in these countries each year. From the consumer's point of view the free importation of food products may be desirable, but from the point of view of the American producer it is not desirable. Now, when he is in need of protection, he finds it being taken away from him.

Blundering Tariff Revolutionists.

The discovery that the estimate of the production of cotton manufactures on which the house ways and means committee based its proposed revision of the tariff was four hundred million square yards out of the way is said to have shaken the faith of the senate finance committee in the competency of the house ways and means committee to perform its work.

The discrepancy represents a value of forty-seven million dollars. If the tariff slashes were so far from the fact in this item, why may they not have made equally serious errors in other particulars? Undoubtedly they have.

Is it safe to let the prosperity of American industries and the happiness of the working people those industries support hinge upon a revolutionary change in the tariff proposed by men who have been detected in miscalculation that might be ruinous? The tariff board method of calculating the effect of revisions, which was favored by President Taft, would have been free from such mistakes.

Country Not Behind Wilson.

Last fall the country voted by more than a million and a quarter majority against, not for the tariff policy of the Democratic party. It voted by more than a million and a quarter against, not for the method of tariff changing adopted by the present administration. Instead of an "overwhelming majority" for President Wilson he lacked more than 2,400,000 votes of any majority whatever. He did not have a majority in any state outside of the south and the far southwest.

Country Has Needed Rest.

Let us no longer underrate the geographical capacities and capabilities of Arizona. Theodore Roosevelt. It is announced, will hide himself from the public view for two months in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river, where it traverses Arizona desert wastes beyond the reach of reporters and out of touch with the wires. What a restful time is approaching, not only for the colonel, but all the rest of us.
